

Debby, my dear honey-cake :

My health is much better now. The more I dream of the love we have shared, the more I love you. These dreams make me feel as if I'm still with you. Debby, I'll surely have much love and lots of joy with you in our future. I'll remember your youthful and lovely face always; our love shall live forever. Please keep a full and complete diary so we can reminisce. I sure hope you have had much happiness at home. Only a very true love like ours will bring you ever greater happiness in future.

Please pray for me, Debby,

NGÀY VIẾT (Dated) 25 June 1970

I often ponder over our petty misunderstandings of the past, while dreaming of the future. It's so hard to shut such regrettable memories from my mind. Surely, it is not good to dwell on such things; but the heartaches we shared, & my failings as a husband, hang heavily on my heart. I can only hope & pray that you harbor few regrets over the many long years you've wasted, waiting for me. I'll make it all up to you some day, Debby, I swear. When I return, you'll find me older, wiser, & far more capable of being the husband you deserve. Please keep faith in me, darling. — Alan

NGÀY VIẾT (Dated) 23 February 1972

Debby, though I have not yet given up all hope, the possibility that we may never again see each other becomes more apparent with each passing year. I simply can no longer hide from that hard reality, like unlucky players at a game of chance, we may someday have to make the difficult decision to call it quits. It's just not fair to you, that I should ruin your entire life, Debby - I'm not worth it, believe me. You are still young - with many good years ahead of you. For your own future happiness, perhaps you should consider the possibility of re-marrying. Please write, and tell me what you really feel. I'll always love you -

Alan

30 November 1972

Merry Xmas, my darling—indeed, for me, a very merry Xmas this year. Merry for all the blessings I've re-discovered, for all the hopes & dreams I've repossessed. My values have changed over these many long years; future plans have come & gone, and, from time to time, I've faltered. But my new values, my new dreams, will bear delicious fruit—I assure you—for they've matured well these past months. I've searched very carefully for lasting happiness—for what life really means to me—and I've found it. I've found it in a family & a home—the dream home we'll soon build together. I've found it in the beautiful New England that I loved so well—that I miss so much. But most of all, Debby, I've found it in you. And I've searched for a realistic career worthy of my talents—fascinating & challenging. And I've found that, too—in scientific research. Everything—even school, now—is calling me back to Boston, to Franny, to a fulfilling & rewarding life. On top of all that, I'll add a pipe-dream or two—But my old ambitions have ceased to be a prime factor in my life—only the frosting on my cake.—Life will begin in Hawaii, Debby, no matter how or when I return—we must start there! Begin now arranging for the most perfect three weeks there possible. Let's spend most of it on two of the outer islands—first, in the privacy of a simple beach cottage, with all services provided, then at a plush resort hotel. Honolulu will be last, & we'll return to San Francisco by luxury liner. Reunion with Bob next—then home for six weeks: to see the family, to find the perfect homesite, to begin our house plans, & to prepare for our flings abroad (including shopping trips to Denmark & Sweden for furniture & accessories).—I dream every day, my darling, of that magic moment when at last we will meet: There, at ebb tide, I'll find you standing at the water's edge—your back to me. As I approach with pounding heart, I'll whisper your name, & you'll turn. Few people have known, or will ever know, the incomparable joy we will share then. And there as we stand, face to face, hand in hand, and we gaze into glistening eyes—at last we'll find peace. And til time should ever cease, for us there'll be no more good byes.

Alan

TIPS
KNOW KNOTS, HOW TO WEAR CLOTHES (CUFFS) COLORFUL UNDERWEAR DON'T SKIMP ON ANYTHING! AVOID BEING TOO COOL (CK. 10 WORST-DRESSED) FIND A CLOTHES IDOL / USE A THEME BECOME A REGULAR CUSTOMER. BROWSE, ASK QUESTIONS, INTRO YOURSELF, BE OBSERVANT. OF OTHERS USE ONLY FEW COLORS / STYLES BETTER QUALITY - LESS QUANTITY THE CONSERV. DRESSER WONT GO OUT OF STYLE QUICKLY.
